It was asked if it a violation of the program fidelity to call participants to let them know of upcoming sessions. Stanford said that yes they should be reminded and is best if it comes from the leader. Program Coordinators can make calls as well. Libby wants to create a training and resources for instructors. She asked what some of the barriers are: transportation, instructors being better prepared, possibly have a caregiver with them, make sure there's room for a wheelchair, mental health, having the visually impaired bring someone with them to help read labels. Get back to Libby if you have other suggestions. • Just a reminder to plan ahead for Annual Workshops. Next few months will be buys. • Nichole had the opportunity to represent us as a state for NCOA webinar. She wanted to express that your efforts are noticed and appreciated. • Linda from Intermountain was able to offer 8 classes last year. She heard so many positive comments after the classes. There is some available money if someone would like to take the class to have more trainers – get a hold of Linda at Linda.caston@imail.org or 801-507-8048. Need trainers in SLC and Provo. • Rebecca will send out an article about two CDSMP leaders who both have intellectual and physical disabilities that she would like you to read. Has some good information. • No update on HealthInsight.

Been working with IT to make it easier to put referrals in the system.
